WIDE AWAKE POLITICS.

a dozen women there above me. Every body knew that Mrs. Green was the best cook in the village. And my goodness, what a supper that was! It was fresh, it is my memory as though I swallowed it only yesterday! There was cream cake, and short cakes, and butter, and two kinds of preserves—strawberry and tomato—and three kinds of sweet cakes; and doughnuts; and custards; and turnovers; and five sorts of pie, besides spotted cheese. And then the most splendid omelet of tea! I eat pretty hearty, and after I had done, we all sat round the table and chatted considerable for a spell, and it was past sunset, afore I thought of starting home.

BELL AND EVERETT.

there are in this State, voters, respectable as to numbers and character who prefer to vote for Bell and Everett to any of the other Presidential candidates.

These gentlemen have a preference for Lincoln and Hamlin, over Douglas and Johnson, and, if they do not have an opportunity to vote for their favorite candidates, they have concluded to vote for the candidates of the Republican party and to aid in swelling their majority, rather than to vote for their life-long antagonists the candidates of the Democratic party. Discouraged by the want of success of the Fillmore party in 1856, they are hesitating as to the running of an electoral ticket in this State, the only tendency of which would be to deprecate the majority of the Republicans, and to lessen the difference between the votes of that party and the Democrats, without any prospect of benefiting their own favorites. By far the greater portion of these gentlemen are decidedly opposed to running any electoral ticket, and it is now highly probable that the wisdom of this determination will be acknowledged by the entire party and that their counsel will control its action.

MR. F. C. LEWIS.

We are happy to learn that Mr. F. C. Lewis, an English gentleman, and one of the most extensive travelers living, contemplates making this city his future residence. Mr. L. has brought with him to this country his extensive library. It has been with him in his travels through Asia and Africa, and, is, peculiarly rich in Archaeology. He is soon to make a valuable contribution to science, by giving to the world the result of years of investigation into the subject of the "types of mankind." He was long in India in the employ of the British Government, during which period, he explored the treasures of oriental literature, and with these, enriched by his extensive observations, his great work will be a very desirable acquisition to this department of scientific investigation; and, we cannot but approve his desire to come and complete it, where Berkley wrote his "Minute Philosopher."

The Indianapolis Journal learns that ex-Governor Paris C. Dunning, one of the ablest and firmest of the friends of Mr. Douglas in Indiana, has avowed his attention to support Mr. Lincoln, now that he sees that the election of his own preference cannot be realized.

Mr. Forney says that the withdrawal of the straight Douglas ticket by the Douglas Central Committee of Pennsylvania, is a mistake. It is an abandonment of principle, and cannot prevent Lincoln carrying the State, which event is sure as fate.

The Governor of South Carolina has issued a proclamation calling an extra session of the Legislature of that State for the purpose of electing Presidential electors, and, if advisable, to take action for the safety and protection of the State."

The New York Express says that there is a scheme on foot to bring republicans over from Pennsylvania to vote the Lincoln ticket in this State on the 6th of November. The Express thus admits that Lincoln has in Pennsylvania "enough and to spare."

Political Consolation.—The Bath Times comes so near as this to indicating a preference for Breckinridge and the "bolters."

"There is one satisfaction which we cannot be cheated of even if Lincoln should be elected. The knife will be put to the throats of the miserable band of traitors who fill the federal offices, and their heads will be nailed to the wall like woodchucks skinned on a County barn in bean time."

LOCAL NEWS-ITEMS.

EXCURSION TO PORTSMOUTH.

To Kennebunk Douglas Men.—Can any one name a single State in which the Breckinridge men are more numerous than the Douglas men in which the former have "fused," or allowed the latter so much as a single blaster on their ticket? There is not one from Maine to Oregon. In every Slave State the Breckinridges go for the whole or none." Who does not see, then, that for Douglas men to vote Fusion tickets where they are strongest is simply putting the knife to Douglas's throat? Breckinridge has already 12 States in the House to Douglas's 2; and this policy will give Breckinridge at least 100 votes to Douglas's 50, supposing New York, New Jersey, and Indiana could be carried for Fusion tickets. No man can honestly say that Fusion gives Douglas the ghost of a chance, either with the People or in Congress. Do real Douglas men mean to be used to elect Breckinridge? Pause and consider!—N. Y. Tribune.

REPUBLICAN ASSOCIATION.

The following letter says the Philadelphia Press, was written by Hon. Abraham Lincoln, the Republican candidate for the Presidency, to John M. Carson, Esq., Chairman of the Committee of Lectures of the Garrison Literary Institute of Philadelphia. It is dated two months previous to the meeting of the Chicago Convention, and may be considered a curiosity in political literature. The italics are the composer's:

JOHN M. CARSON, Esq. Dear Sir: Yours of March 14th, addressed to me at Chicago, and seeking to arrange with me to lecture for the Garrison Institute, has been received. I regret to say I cannot make such an arrangement. I am not a professional lecturer, have never got up but one lecture, and that, I think, a rather poor one. Besides, what time I can spare from my own business this season, I shall be compelled to give to politics.

Respectfully yours,
A LINCOLN.

Shakespeare as a Wide Awake.—A Westerman has made some citations from Shakespeare, suited to the times:

We have the heart's blood of the House of Lancaster!

Who else than Buchanan was intended by the demand,

James of Lancaster, resign thy crown!
Thou hast deceived me!

The Devil take thee!

Life and all, old Lancaster has spent in infamy!

And,

Here behold the pale ashes of the house of Lancaster.

And then, inimitable Sir John Falstaff,

They say he is dead, he is not dead,

Buck! Buck! I would wash myself of the Buck!

And of the Douglas, what, than this moment, did the great bard point to, when he exclaimed :

Douglas is discomfited!

Or when he made Douglas say :

I am the Douglas, fatal to all those that wear those colors on them.

Again;

Mother! Mother! Mother! Oh, my dear mother

Do I see you?

Our Hannibal was doubtless intended in those lines put in the mouth of his enemies:

Hannibal drives back our troops,

And conquers as he lists.

He meant our Wide Awakes, when he promised that

They should awake and endeavor for defense, Thunder shall not so awake beds of earth As we our opponents.

What do you suppose he intended by saying,

No mournful Bell shall toll.

And

Breckinridge shall lose his head.

A Sensible Conclusion.—Dr. Nott, of Alabama, better known as a man of science than as a politician, says in a recent letter that he is utterly indifferent as to the result of the election :

"Not seeing that the south and the country at large have anything to gain by the success of any party now in the field, I shall not take the trouble to cast a vote. If I were forced to vote, in the present aspect of affairs, I believe I should cast it for Lincoln, with the hope of bringing this irrepressible conflict to a close."

The Indianapolis Journal learns that ex-Governor Paris C. Dunning, one of the ablest and firmest of the friends of Mr. Douglas in Indiana, has avowed his attention to support Mr. Lincoln, now that he sees that the election of his own preference cannot be realized.

Accident on the Fall River Railroad.

LATEST NEWS.

BOSTON, Oct. 26.

The early mail train from Fall River this morning, met with an accident when about nine miles out from that city.

The accident was caused by the breaking of a rail across a culvert. The train was proceeding at the rate of thirty-five miles an hour. The rear car was thrown from the track, and drawn some forty rods upon its side before the train could be stopped.

There were thirty-five passengers in the car, most of whom escaped without serious injury.

The Portsmouth House was brilliantly illuminated, making a fine appearance, as we approached, and when the boat touched the wharf, an exuberant "cheers for Newport WIDE AWAKES" rent the air, showed that strong bodies were on the wharf to give an honest, farmer's welcome. After a short drill, the battalion was drawn up in line before the main building, to listen to the address. The blazing torches reviled the various uniforms, the military discipline, and noble appearance of the men. They brought out finely the whole contour of the piazza and balcony, covered with gentlemen and beautiful ladies. George Manchester, Esq., of Portsmouth, in a brief, pithy, hearty speech, extended to the companies a welcome to the place, and, to their hospitalities. This was replied to on behalf of the WIDE AWAKES by their President, Col. R. R. Hazard Jr., in a speech replete with argument, effectually airtight, closing up with a quotation of Whittier's recent soul stirring song; which brought down the house, or, more correctly the people outside of the house.

"THE QUAKERS ARE OUT."

Mr. Manchester then introduced Major Peirce of Johnston, who made the principal speech, and a telling one it was: He paid his respects to both wings of the Democracy, giving the greater attention to Mr. Douglass, and also to the Bell and Everett party. His strong argument, will be discussed by the fireside, increasing many fold, the power which it wielded when delivered; while its humor and wit, will for many a day produce a continuation of the hearty laughter, with which it was originally received. It was frequently remarked, after the Major had closed, that it was a capital address, and he was a talented speaker.

Certain doors within the house had been curiously watched and guarded, from our first arrival; how long before, we know not. But upon the approach of the WIDE AWAKES, they opened as by magic. An interesting spectacle was before us. Here were long tables, neatly and tastefully arrayed, on which rested a bountiful supply, of what was well calculated to both tempt and satisfy the appetite, and also behind them, flashing eyes, blooming cheeks, and cherry lips. If there was roguery in making such a display, if it was intended to draw attention from the eatables, and drinkables, thereby making a financial saving, all we have to say is, that the plan exactly succeeded. Some of the young bachelors were drawn, not only from the eatables, but from the room, they were found, unaccountably, in the kitchen, and they are in such a poor way, that it is doubtful when they will have any appetite. It is intimated, that some young men will soon duplicate their visit, to ascertain if possible, what has become of their lost appetite, to say nothing of the "aching void," when the heart "ought to grow."

Before leaving, the Commander gave a Zouave to the fair entertainers, and a specimen of the drill, peculiar to the organization, which elicited warm commendation, and the remark of a stranger, qualified to judge, that there is no better drilled company in the State. We hope that by efficient drilling, before next Thursday, our "boys" will make themselves as they can, the best in the State.

As the Perry moved from the wharf, cheers were given by the people of Portsmouth; the "Zouave" by the WIDE AWAKES; and three cheers by the steamer's whistle. We reached the wharf in Newport at 11 o'clock every one pleased. The committee at Portsmouth, consisting of Messrs. Borden, Chace, Benjamin Hall, George B. Anthony, William Hathaway, William Barker, Edward Mott, William M. Manchester, George Manchester, and Edward Anthony Esq., are entitled to great credit for their excellent plans, and the success with which they were carried out. Capt. Allen of the steamer, and his officers and men, did all in their power to gratify their passengers; everybody was in good spirits and good humour, so that the excursion was emphatically a success.

Now then for Providence.

The New York Herald estimate, that the Prince's tour of a month in the American States cost him $100,000, and that other people spent on themselves and him, in wardrobes, balls, decorations and displays, not less than two or two and a half millions. The New York hall estimating each wardrobe at $200, (and some of the ladies spent thousands,) represented alone an outlay of a million dollars.

Very Improper.—The N. Y. Saturday Press places under the dramatic head the account of the reception of the Prince of Wales in Trinity church.

The D. D. War.—An unsuccessful attempt was made at the recent meeting of the Synod of the O. S. Presbyterian Church of Virginia, to abolish the custom of ministers accepting the title of Doctor of Divinity.

Law.—A libel suit against Bennett of the New York Herald has failed through because it could not be proved, except by common report, that Mr. B. was the proprietor of that paper.

Important Controversy Settled.—The important controversy between the Boston Water Power Company and David Sears, which has been pending for several years, has just been settled. Mr. Sears claimed the title to a large tract of land in the Back Bay. By the terms of the settlement, Mr. Sears releases all claim to the land in dispute, to the Company, and also conveys to them about one hundred and fifty thousand feet of land south of the Providence Railroad and east of Avenue Four. The Courier understands that the settlement is satisfactory to all parties concerned.—Boston Herald.

"A Piece of Her Mind."—A newspaper has perpetrated the following paragraph:

"Shape on New London county, Conn. the Superior Court of which, at its last session divorced twenty couples."

Whereupon a lady correspondent of the Narragansett Weekly, with an evident dash of the "Fanny Fern" in her composition, takes up the matter in praise of the Court, and closes:

"Why, sir, instead of twenty couples, unquestionably it would have been better could the number have been doubled."

Please show me the street in your pretty village or any country neighborhood, that cannot produce a pair who were not (in my humble opinion) matched in beauty, and certainly not properly mated on earth, who were silly enough to slip themselves into the matrimonial noose, before the honey-moon half waned, find out that they are as well suited to each other as a lamb and a Bengal tiger. Your gentleman was all smiles and gallantry—a perfect Joseph and tee-totaler—could live on the amiables and favor of the one he was charming with a serpent's cunning; but when he throws off the disguise, and the one he has deceived sees before her only a life of sorrow, neglect, and desolation, can she be blamed for obtaining redress from the Superior Court?"

"Minute Philosopher."—The Bath Times comes so near as this to indicating a preference for Breckinridge and the "bolters."

"There is one satisfaction which we cannot be cheated of even if Lincoln should be elected. The knife will be put to the

We would invite especial attention to the IMPROVED SHUTTLE MACHINE, it being very simple, not liable to get out of order, uses a straight needle, runs with great speed, and makes the stitch alike on both sides.
